

Ladies and gentlemen, esteemed supporters, and my mom who swears she'll get a smartphone to follow me online... eventually,
Wow! What a gathering of amazing people! First off, I want to thank you all for coming. I was worried I'd be talking to empty chairs--because, let's face it, chairs aren't known for their applause.
We're here today because of you--the incredible individuals who support me, just like caffeine supports my mornings. Without you, my dreams would be like a Wi-Fi signal on low battery--fading fast!
Let's give it up for all of you who've believed in my cause, because whether you've been with us from the start or you've just arrived, you're as precious as finding an extra fry at the bottom of the bag.
Seriously though, your support means the world. You're like the sprinkles on my donut, the cheese on my pizza, and the reason I don't spend every day in pajamas. Thank you for keeping me on my toes and out of my slippers.
Here's to more laughs, more successes, and maybe even more donuts--we've earned them! Thank you a million times over!
