

Ladies and gentlemen,

Today, I stand before you with a mixture of humility and gratitude, reflecting on the incredible journey this scholarship application process has taken me on. Although I am not among the recipients, this experience has been profoundly enriching.

Applying for this scholarship allowed me to delve deeply into my aspirations and refine my goals. It encouraged me to think critically about my passion for learning and how I can contribute to my chosen field. I am grateful for the opportunity to have articulated my dreams and to have been considered alongside such talented individuals.

This moment of not receiving the scholarship is not a setback but a stepping stone. It has inspired me to work even harder, seek new avenues of support, and continue pursuing my ambitions with renewed vigor. I have gained invaluable insights and motivation that will undoubtedly guide me in my future endeavors.

To those who were awarded: congratulations. Your achievements and dedication truly deserve this recognition, and I am thrilled to celebrate with you today.

Thank you to the scholarship committee for considering my application and for your commitment to supporting students. This is not the end of my journey, but a part of my story that will propel me forward.

Thank you.
