

Ladies and gentlemen,

I stand before you truly humbled and grateful for your recognition. Receiving this award is a tremendous honor, and I deeply appreciate the sentiment behind it. However, after thoughtful consideration, I have decided to graciously decline this accolade.

My decision comes not from a place of indifference, but from a belief in sharing opportunities and fostering growth. There are many deserving individuals whose efforts also warrant acknowledgment and celebration. By stepping back, I hope to shine a light on these talents who may have not yet had their moment to be recognized.

While I may not accept this award today, please know that I am committed to continuing my work with even greater passion. I look forward to collaborating with all of you and supporting initiatives that empower our community and industry to reach new heights.

Thank you once again for this incredible honor and for your understanding. Let us keep pushing boundaries together.

Thank you.
