

Dear [Applicant's Name],

Thank you for your recent application for the [Grant Name]. We truly admire and appreciate the effort and passion you have demonstrated in developing your project proposal.

After careful review, we regret to inform you that we will not be able to fund your project at this time. This decision was not made lightly and reflects the intense competition and limited resources available this cycle.

It's important to recognize that rejection is not a reflection of your capability or the potential impact of your project. Instead, it is an integral part of the challenge we all face in pursuing ambitious goals. Embrace this moment as an opportunity to refine your approach, learn, and grow stronger.

We encourage you to continue your impressive work and consider reapplying in the future. Your commitment to making a difference is evident and commendable, and we are confident that you will rise to meet any challenges ahead with courage and determination.

Thank you again for your application and for the inspiring work you are doing.

Best regards,
