

Ladies and gentlemen,

I rise to address the speculative nature of the statements presented. The testimony before this court delves into assumptions rather than established facts, posing risks to a fair assessment. The foundation of our legal proceedings is built on evidence that is clear, concrete, and cogent.

Speculation invites uncertainty and conjecture, leading us away from the factual matrix necessary to make informed decisions. Without verifiable evidence, we stray from the path of justice and towards guesswork.

Therefore, I respectfully urge the court to disregard any speculative statements that lack evidential support, ensuring our deliberations remain grounded in the reliable and the proven.

Thank you.
