

Ladies and gentlemen,

I stand before you today to voice my concerns about the environmental policy currently under discussion. While the intention to protect our planet is commendable, I believe that the proposed measures require further consideration.

Firstly, the economic impact on small businesses cannot be overlooked. Many small enterprises may struggle to comply with stricter regulations without significant support, potentially leading to job losses and economic downturns in vulnerable communities.

Secondly, the policy lacks clarity on implementation. Without a detailed, actionable plan, how can we ensure compliance and effectiveness in achieving our environmental goals? It is essential to provide clear guidelines and timelines.

Lastly, adaptation and innovation should be supported. Providing incentives for green technology development and alternative solutions will foster a more sustainable change without stifling economic growth.

In conclusion, while I support the goal of environmental protection, I urge for a balanced approach that considers economic implications, clear implementation strategies, and supports innovation. Thank you.
