

Ladies and Gentlemen,

I want to take a moment to speak directly to those of you who are facing the challenge of cancer. I know that each day can be filled with uncertainty, but it's important to remember that you are not alone on this journey.

Every step you take, no matter how big or small, is a testament to your bravery and resilience. You have an incredible strength within you, even on the days when it feels hard to find. Your courage inspires everyone around you, and it is a reminder of the power of the human spirit.

Please know that it's okay to lean on others for support. Friends, family, and your medical team are here to walk alongside you every step of the way. We are all cheering you on, ready to lift you up whenever you need it.

Take each day as it comes, allow yourself grace and compassion, and remember to cherish the little moments that bring you joy. You are stronger than you realize, and your journey is a beacon of hope and faith.

Thank you for your courage and for showing us all what it truly means to fight with heart and determination.
