

Ladies and gentlemen, thank you for gathering here to celebrate [Coworker's Name] and their upcoming bundle of joy! Who knew this would be the only project with a nine-month deadline that [Coworker's Name] looks forward to without needing extra caffeine?

Now, we all know babies come with some great perks. For starters, they'll work for free as the perfect excuse to leave any boring meeting early! And let's not forget--they're the ultimate icebreaker at social gatherings. "Oh, the baby needs me? Gotta run!"

[Coworker's Name], we expect you to take "Bring Your Child to Work Day" to a whole new level. In fact, your little one can help us solve the mystery of missing pens and the disappearing snacks in the office kitchen.

We can't wait to welcome your little co-worker into our team. With your parenting skills and the amount of advice you've gathered from all of us, this kid's future will be brighter than our new office lights. Congratulations, [Coworker's Name]! We can't wait to see how adorable your new "project manager" is. Cheers to diapers, bottles, and way too many cute baby photos on your desk!