

Ladies and gentlemen,

Thank you so much for gathering here today to celebrate this joyful occasion. As we come together in anticipation of a new life, my heart is filled with immense joy and gratitude. My dear daughter, watching you grow from a little girl into a beautiful, caring woman has been one of my life's greatest treasures.

Today, we not only celebrate the new life that is about to join our family, but also the incredible mother you will become. I have every confidence in your ability to nurture and love with all your heart. Parenthood is an incredible journey filled with endless love, and I know you are ready to embark on this beautiful adventure.

To our little one yet to arrive, know that you are already surrounded by immense love, and we cannot wait to welcome you into our arms.

To my daughter, remember that we are here for you every step of the way. You are about to create precious memories with your own child just as we have with you. With this loving circle of family and friends, you are never alone.

Let us raise a glass to love, family, and the wonderful journey ahead. Here's to a lifetime of happiness and cherished memories.

Thank you all for being here today.