

Ladies and gentlemen, thank you all for coming to celebrate this double trouble duo set to join us soon!

Now, having twins is like winning the baby lottery, but instead of cash, you get double the diapers. It's all about balance, right? Speaking of balance, I heard the only exercise parents of twins get is juggling-- babies, bottles, and a whole lot of coffee!

And let's not forget their soon-to-be sibling, who's probably already rehearsing their "I'm the responsible one" speech. But really, they're just excited for two more little humans to boss around.

As the older sibling, remember, you'll have two little partners in crime to blame when things go missing or get destroyed. Just think of all the fun you'll have tricking them into thinking chores are a game.

Here's to these soon-to-be-born twins, who we know will double the laughter, the joy, and maybe the laundry load. Cheers to the chaos, the love, and the lifelong bond! Thank you!