

Hello everyone,

Welcome to this very special gathering where we celebrate not just the arrival of a new baby but the launch of a new "version" in our family-- it's Baby 1.0!

Just like a new tech release, this little one is sure to bring updates to our lives filled with new features and endless potential. We all know that parenting, like coding, involves debugging and troubleshooting, but it's also about creating something amazing from scratch.

Today, we celebrate the amazing "developers," our soon-to-be parents, who are prepared to embark on this incredible journey. Though sleepless nights and messy "beta tests" may lie ahead, remember that every little smile, every giggle, is a reminder of the incredible masterpiece you are building.

So, let's toast to the new little "program" who will certainly upgrade our lives with love, laughter, and infinite joy.

Cheers to Baby 1.0!