

Ladies and gentlemen,

Thank you all for joining us on this special day as we welcome my little sister into our family and the world of divine mischief--I mean, grace. Today is all about celebrating this tiny bundle of joy, who's already managed to steal our hearts and most of our sleep.

Let's be honest, my sister is so cute she could probably negotiate world peace with just her giggle. And while she's only been around for a short time, she's already mastered the ancient art of wrapping Mommy and Daddy around her little finger.

We're here to not only bless her but also to wish her an exciting journey filled with love, joy, and maybe just a bit fewer diaper changes. I have a feeling that she's going to teach us as much as we're here to teach her--like how to find missing pacifiers with expert precision.

Thank you to everyone for being here to share in this joyous day. We're grateful for all your love and support, and we know she's lucky to have such a wonderful group of people in her life.

Now, let's go enjoy some cake, because we know my sister can't yet--someone's got to do it!

Cheers to a blessed and beautifully chaotic life ahead!

Thank you!