

Ladies and gentlemen, gather 'round,
To this new home, a love has found.
With walls that whisper tales untold,
In warmth and safety, dreams unfold.
Beneath this roof, may laughter reign,
Through stormy nights and gentle rain.
From first light's gleam to evening's hush,
May joy and love forever rush.
The floors shall echo with dance and cheer,
As friendships deepen year by year.
Within these rooms, new hopes ignite,
A beacon bright on each starry night.
To hearts and hearth, a pledge we make,
In every step, our love awake.
So here's a toast to new beginnings,
In this beloved haven of endless innings.
Raise your glasses, clink with glee,
To love, to life, and destiny!