

Ladies and gentlemen,

Thank you all so much for being here today to celebrate this joyful occasion with us. It means the world to have our beloved family and friends gathered in our new home--a place we're eager to fill with laughter, love, and unforgettable memories.

As we stand here in this new chapter, we're reminded of the journey it took to get here. It's heartening to know that our home will always be open to you--our dearest friends and family--because every brick and beam is built on the love and support you've given us over the years.

May this house always be filled with warmth and joy, and may it echo with the sound of shared stories and laughter. Here's to many wonderful moments ahead for all of us!

Thank you once again for sharing this special day with us. Please make yourselves at home!

Cheers to new beginnings!
