

Sure, here's a simple template for a virtual housewarming speech with a humorous and relaxed vibe:

---

Hello everyone!

Thank you all for joining our virtual housewarming party! I promise there will be no heavy lifting involved today--unless you're lifting a drink, in which case, lift away!

It's a bit surreal moving into a new place and not having you all physically here to help us figure out what each mysterious light switch does. But don't worry, we've only set off the smoke alarms twice...this week.

As you can see, we've spared no expense in ensuring top-notch internet connectivity. The router is strategically placed next to the coffee machine--because, priorities.

We are excited to share our new home with you, even if it's just through a screen for now. The walls are a bright, welcoming... white, or as the paint company creatively calls it, "Whispering Marshmallow."

We appreciate all of you for being a part of this new chapter in our lives. Feel free to give us your virtual advice, like which houseplant stands the best chance of surviving under our care or how to hang the shelves straight without an epic fail.

So let's raise our glasses--or mugs, or whatever's handy--and make a toast: Here's to new beginnings, reliable Wi-Fi, and the hope that our house-plants survive long enough to impress you when you visit in person. Cheers!

---

Thank you for celebrating with us. We couldn't have done it without you--literally, because moving furniture by yourself is hardly fun! Have a great evening, everyone!