

Dear friends and family,

Today, as we gather in this new home, we are reminded of the incredible gift of new beginnings. A house is more than just walls and a roof; it is the sanctuary where dreams take root, where families grow, and where love finds a place to flourish.

As we stand here, let us fill this space with hope and joy. Let every corner echo with laughter, every room resonate with peace, and every window frame the beauty of the world outside. May this home be a place of refuge and strength, a foundation for supportive relationships and lasting memories.

Let us also remember that a true home is built on virtues of kindness, patience, and understanding. May you nurture these qualities as you build your lives here, and may they be as strong as the stones that form these walls.

May this blessing fill every heart with warmth, and may this home be a testament to the love and unity of those who dwell within it. Bless this house with happiness, and may you always find grace and goodwill at your doorstep.

Amen.
