

Good morning, everyone,

I want to take a moment to address something important. Recently, some actions and words have caused hurt and misunderstanding within our school community, and I am truly sorry for any pain this has caused.

As members of a learning environment, it's crucial for us to support each other and foster a spirit of respect and understanding. I acknowledge that I could have handled things differently and I am committed to learning from this experience.

Moving forward, I hope we can work together to create a more inclusive and compassionate atmosphere. I am open to listening and engaging in dialogue to address your concerns and to ensure we are all contributing positively to our community.

Thank you for your understanding and for being part of this journey towards peace and reconciliation.

Sincerely,
