

Good evening, everyone!

First of all, let's address the elephant in the room: Yes, we've made it to graduation! And yes, our parents are as surprised as we are.

Now, I know they say high school is the best four (or for some of us, five) years of your life. But I'm here to reassure you that there's more fun to be had. Like college ramen or mastering the art of avoiding adult responsibilities.

To our teachers, thank you for your endless support and for not giving us too many pop quizzes. We promise to use what we've learned... or at least try to.

To my fellow graduates, remember: We're like a software update-- constantly developing, often buggy, and always needing more memory. But that's what makes us unique and ready for the world!

So, here's to us--the class of [Year]. May our dreams be big, our Wi-Fi always connected, and our nap times plentiful!

Thank you, and congratulations!
