

Ladies and gentlemen, esteemed colleagues, and those here just for the free snacks,

Welcome to this induction ceremony reception! I must say, it's an honor to stand here today on this momentous occasion, mostly because I'm no longer a "newbie." I've made it!

Congratulations to our inductees. You did it! You've climbed to the peak of "New Member Mountain," only to find out that it's actually more of a molehill. But hey, it's an accomplishment nonetheless!

We know that joining our ranks is a big step. It's like being handed the secret menu at a fancy restaurant, but instead of exquisite dishes, you get insider knowledge on who actually stole your lunch from the office fridge.

As you embark on this journey with us, remember, no question is too silly. Except maybe, "Is Monday really necessary?" To that, the universe offers a resounding "Yes," much to our dismay.

But fear not! You're in excellent company. We've got a team of professionals here who are so skilled, they deserve capes -- or at least a nap.

To wrap up, remember this: we're thrilled to have you with us, and we can't wait to celebrate more of your milestones. So let's raise a glass, enjoy the cookies, and have some fun. Welcome aboard!

Thank you, everyone! Let the mingling begin!
