

Ladies and gentlemen, beneath this starry dome,
We gather tonight in this enchanting home.
The night is young, the heartbeats tender,
In this haven of warmth, let us surrender.
Glasses whisper secrets, laughter takes flight,
As candles flicker, painting dreams in the night.
Every dish a sonnet, every sip a rhyme,
We feast on joy, transcending time.
Among friends so dear, and new bonds to weave,
Together we dance on this magical eve.
Let love be the melody that guides our stay,
As we cherish this evening, come what may.
With hearts wide open, and spirits aglow,
Welcome, dear friends, to this night's gentle flow.
May our gathering be touched with grace and delight,
Here's to love, laughter, and endless light.