

Ladies and gentlemen,

As we gather here today for this farewell party, I must say, it's a bittersweet moment. Mostly sweet, to be honest, since I'm eyeing that dessert table.

I've been struggling to find the perfect words to say as we bid farewell to our dear friend [Name]. During this struggle, I realized I could always make a career switch to become a mime if giving speeches doesn't work out!

But in all seriousness, [Name] has been an integral part of our team. I still remember the day they joined us... mainly because that was the day we learned that "5-minute coffee break" could somehow stretch to half an hour.

You see, [Name] has been more than just a colleague. They've been our go-to for all things office-related, like fixing the printer, saving us from IT disasters, and, most importantly, telling us it's definitely not Friday--especially when we wish it was.

[Name], as you move on to your next adventure, just remember, you've left a permanent mark on us all. Mostly on the walls with those sticky notes, but hey, they're a part of history now!

We wish you all the best on your journey ahead. May your coffee be strong, and your emails be short!

Let's raise a glass to [Name], who is irreplaceable, unless you count that cardboard cutout we're planning to leave at your desk.

Cheers to new beginnings and keeping the group chat alive.

Thank you, everyone, and remember--let's keep this party going until they kick us out... or run out of cake. Whichever comes first!
