

Ladies and gentlemen,

Today, we gather to celebrate a remarkable journey of love. It all began with a simple hello, and from that moment, their paths intertwined. They shared laughter, supported each other through challenges, and created countless memories together.

The little moments became big milestones. From their first date to meeting each other's families, every step has strengthened their bond. We've seen them grow individually and as a couple, supporting each other's dreams and building a future together.

Today, as we celebrate their engagement, we acknowledge the love, respect, and commitment they have for one another. Here's to a lifetime of happiness, love, and new adventures.

Congratulations to the happy couple! Cheers!