

Ladies and gentlemen,

As I stand before you today, my heart is full of both joy and a touch of sadness. Today, we gather to bid farewell to a remarkable chapter in our lives and to a group of people who have touched each of us in countless ways.

To our dear colleagues and friends who are moving on, I want to express my deepest gratitude. Your dedication, kindness, and passion have left an indelible mark on our hearts and on this organization. We have laughed together, faced challenges together, and achieved incredible milestones together.

Each one of you has inspired us in your unique ways, and you will be dearly missed. While it is hard to say goodbye, I am certain that the future holds amazing adventures and opportunities for each of you.

Remember, no matter where you go, a piece of our hearts and the fond memories of our time together will accompany you.

Let us cherish these moments we've shared and look forward with hope to the paths ahead. Please know that you always have a home here, and our doors are open should you return.

Thank you for everything. Farewell, and may your journey be filled with endless joy and success.

With affection and best wishes.
