

Ladies and gentlemen,

Today, as I stand here celebrating this special moment with all of you, I find myself reflecting on the countless memories I've shared with my brother. From the days of backyard adventures and shared secrets under the night sky, to the mischief we got into and the lessons we learned along the way.

Growing up with him was a journey filled with laughter, understanding, and the occasional wrestling match, which I never quite won. But through it all, he was my guide, my confidant, and my partner in crime.

As we step into this new chapter of life, I am filled with gratitude for all those memories that have brought us to today. Here's to more adventures, more laughter, and creating new memories as he embarks on this wonderful journey of love.

Thank you.