

Ladies and gentlemen,
Gather 'round, beneath this starlit dome,
For love's tender story, where two hearts call home.
Today, we weave dreams in a tapestry of fate,
Celebrating a journey that's wonderfully great.
To my dear cousin, with eyes full of light,
You stand here in love, a truly beautiful sight.
With your beloved, whose hand you now hold,
Together weaving tales of love yet untold.
From whispered secrets beneath ancient trees,
To shared laughter carried on the breeze,
May your days be like verses from a sweet, gentle song,
Where moments of joy and love forever belong.
As stars above bless this union divine,
May your hearts entwine like the softest of vines.
May love be your compass, your guide, your refrain,
Through sunbeam and shadow, through laughter and rain.
So here's a toast to these hearts brave and true,
May your love story be endless, and always brand new.
Raise your glasses high to the lovely pair,
In a dance of romance, beautiful and rare.
Cheers to love, to life, and dreams taking flight,
May this engagement begin your forever tonight.