

In this sacred garden of goodbye,
We gather under the watchful sky,
To honor a soul whose light has spun,
A tapestry of love never undone.
My dearest friend, your laughter's grace,
Still echoes within this hallowed space,
Your spirit, a sun that brightly shone,
Guiding us all when paths were unknown.
With a heart so vast and words so kind,
You left your mark on all you'd find,
Your dreams took flight on wings of hope,
Teaching us how to love and cope.
Though tears may fall and sorrow we weave,
In the whisper of winds, your essence we perceive,
Forever etched in stories we share,
Our bond transcends the clouds we must bear.
So rest, dear friend, in tranquil repose,
Amidst the stars where eternity flows.
In our hearts, your legacy thrives,
In every beat, your spirit survives.
