

Good morning, everyone,

Today, as we gather for our weekly assembly, I want us to take a moment to reflect on our journey so far this year. We've faced challenges, celebrated successes, and learned invaluable lessons along the way. Each experience has helped shape who we are and nudged us a little closer to who we want to become.

Think about a moment this year when you encountered a hurdle. How did it feel? What did it teach you? Remember, it's okay to stumble, as long as we pick ourselves up and keep moving forward. Each step, even the small ones, is progress.

Let's also remember the importance of supporting one another. Every one of us is on a unique path, and lending a helping hand or a kind word can make a world of difference. Growth is not just an individual journey but a collective one.

As we move forward, let's make a conscious effort to embrace change, learn from our mistakes, and celebrate our growth. Together, let's make the rest of this year meaningful and transformative.

Thank you for listening, and have a great day ahead!
