

Good morning everyone,

Today, we gather here in the spirit of unity and love. Our school chapel is a sanctuary where we come together as a community, supporting and uplifting one another.

As we reflect on the idea of united love, let's remember the simple truth that love binds us all. Despite our differences, we share the common thread of humanity. This unity is our strength.

Let's make an effort to be kinder and more understanding. Reach out to someone in need, offer a helping hand, and show compassion. These small acts of love can create ripples that transform our community.

As we leave today, let's carry this spirit of united love with us, and spread goodwill wherever we go.

Thank you.
