

Ladies and gentlemen, friends and allies,
We gather here today, united in our shared commitment to advancing women's rights, a cause that does not belong to just one gender but to everyone. Together, we can create a world where equality is not just a dream but a reality for all women and girls.
We stand with empathy, understanding that each of us has faced different challenges and struggles. Today, we choose to listen, learn, and lift each other up, recognizing the strength and resilience that we all bring to this movement.
Our voices, united in harmony, can overcome barriers and bridge divides. By collaborating with empathy and respect, we can foster a society where justice and equality are the norm for every woman, everywhere.
Let us keep walking forward, side by side, with hope in our hearts and a firm belief that change is within reach. Together, we can make a difference. Together, we will not rest until equality is a reality.
Thank you.
