

Ladies and gentlemen, friends, and allies,

Today, as we gather here with hearts full of hope and determination, we are reminded of the incredible power we hold when united in purpose. We stand together not just for ourselves but for every woman whose voice has been silenced, whose rights have been dismissed, and whose dreams have been deferred.

We dream of a world where equality is not just a promise but a reality. A world where gender does not define one's destiny but enriches our shared journey. This is a future we will achieve through unity, compassion, and relentless courage.

Our strength grows from our diversity, and our resolve is fortified by our shared vision of a better tomorrow. Let us support one another, amplify each other's voices, and continue this vital fight with unwavering solidarity.

Together, we will shape a future where every woman can thrive, where dignity is upheld, and where justice prevails. Thank you for standing together in this hopeful journey towards a brighter, more equitable world.

Thank you.
