

Ladies and Gentlemen,

Thank you for gathering here today to stand together in the fight for women's rights. We are here because we believe in transformation through action, and we refuse to accept anything less than equality and justice. We demand change, not tomorrow, but today. We demand equal pay for equal work. We demand the right to make decisions about our own bodies. We demand an end to violence against women. And above all, we demand our voices be heard.

Our call for action is clear. Let's work together to create policies that protect and empower. Let's educate and engage our communities to break down the barriers of discrimination and bias. Together, we can build a future where gender equality is not just a vision but a reality.

Let us not wait for change--let us be the change.

Thank you.