

Ladies and gentlemen, comrades in the fight for justice, We stand here today, united and unyielding, with one resolute voice. We march not just for ourselves, but for the generations that follow, demanding justice that has been long overdue. Our presence here is a testament to our strength and our refusal to be silenced.
This march is not merely about resistance; it's about change. We call for dignity, equality, and the basic human rights that every individual deserves. No longer will we accept the injustices that have plagued our communities. We will not be passive spectators to decisions made behind closed doors.
We are here to say enough is enough. We demand accountability, transparency, and a future where justice prevails. This is our moment, and we will not let it slip through our fingers.
Together, we are powerful. Together, we will bring change. Stand firm, march on, and let them hear the call of defiant justice!
Thank you.