

My friends,

We stand here today, united and strong, because there is no time to waste. The issues we face are urgent, and the need for change is immediate. We are here because we can no longer wait for promises. We demand action, now!

Every moment we delay is a moment lost. Our voices must be loud enough to echo through the halls of power. They need to hear us, see us, and understand that we will not be ignored. We are fighting for a future that is equitable, just, and sustainable--and this fight cannot wait!

It is time to rise up and hold those in power accountable. They must make the hard choices to protect our planet, ensure justice, and secure a brighter future for all. Today, we march to show that we are watching, we are persistent, and we will not stop until the change we need has arrived.

Let's move forward, together, with determination and purpose. Our time is now, and we will not be silenced!

Thank you!