

Good evening, everyone!

First, let me say how wonderful it is to see all these familiar and beloved faces gathered here today. Moments like these remind us of the strong bonds we share and the love that flows through our family.

As we look around, it's heartening to see not just the history we carry with us, but also the bright future that lies ahead. Each of us is writing a story filled with dreams and hopes, and together, our stories create a legacy that we are proud to pass on.

Let's cherish the memories we've shared so far and eagerly anticipate the adventures yet to come. Here's to new beginnings, continued love, and countless more reunions in the years ahead.

Cheers to family, to love, and to the future!