

Ladies and gentlemen, esteemed meme enthusiasts, and connoisseurs of internet hilarity,

We gather today to address a question that has lingered in our digital hearts longer than a cat hangs onto a laser pointer: Which meme reigns supreme--the timeless "Doge" or the versatile "Distracted Boyfriend"?

On one paw, we have "Doge," the Shiba Inu whose vibrant colors and Comic Sans font have expressed emotions we never knew we had. Who could forget phrases like "such wow," "very debate," and "much relevance"? If Shakespeare were a modern-day memer, surely "Doge" would be his muse.

On the other hand, the "Distracted Boyfriend" meme offers us a narrative as rich and layered as an onion--or perhaps, a parfait. This meme speaks to anyone who has ever dared to be distracted by life's constant temptations while facing stern judgment from society, or in this case, a girlfriend.

But fear not, for this is a debate and not the final season of "Game of Thrones." In memedom, everyone's a winner, much share, very laugh.

Thank you, and may our feeds forever be filled with the shiniest of new memes.