

Good morning, esteemed investors. I'm Alex, co-founder of EcoWave, a pioneering tech startup that's set to revolutionize renewable energy. Every year, the global demand for clean energy climbs, yet we still rely heavily on traditional power sources. EcoWave aims to change this. With our cutting-edge wave energy converters, we're harnessing the immense, untapped power of the oceans to produce clean, sustainable energy. Our unique technology is not only efficient but also environment-friendly, with minimal ecological impact. We've developed a scalable model that can be deployed globally, turning vast coastal areas into powerhouses of green energy.

In just six months, our prototype has exceeded performance expectations, and we're already in talks with major coastal cities for pilot projects. We're here today seeking $2 million in funding to expand our team and accelerate our go-to-market strategy. With a projected growth rate of 200% annually, the return on investment is not only promising but inevitable.

Join us at EcoWave, and let's ride the wave of innovation towards a cleaner, brighter future. Thank you.