

Good evening, everyone.

It is truly a heartfelt joy to stand before all of you tonight. As we gather here, surrounded by familiar faces and cherished memories, I am overwhelmed with gratitude and warmth.

Each of us has walked our unique paths since we last came together, and yet, here we are--reunited, bound by the shared history that makes this moment so special. Our laughter, our stories, and the bonds we formed remain as vivid as ever, resonating through time and distance.

Tonight, let us celebrate those connections. Let us embrace the nostalgic moments that have shaped who we are today, and let us cherish the opportunity to forge new memories together.

May this reunion be a reminder of the love and support we have in one another, and may it inspire us to stay closer, no matter how far we may roam.

Here's to us, to our past, and to an incredible future filled with endless possibilities.

Thank you.