

Ladies and gentlemen,

Wow, it's amazing to look around this room and see so many familiar faces! I want to start by saying how wonderful it is to reunite and catch up with everyone after all these years. It feels like it was just yesterday we were all hanging out and sharing those unforgettable moments.

Tonight is all about celebrating our past, present, and future. Thank you to everyone who worked hard to make this evening possible. From our favorite inside jokes to the adventures and mischief we got up to, we've shared some incredible times together.

We've all taken different paths since, but what binds us is the bond we forged back then. It's heartwarming to see that it's as strong as ever. So let's raise a glass to friendship, the joy of reconnecting, and the wonderful memories we continue to create. Here's to all of you and the journey ahead!

Cheers!
