

Ladies and gentlemen,

Today, we gather to celebrate not just the journey of recovery, but the incredible resilience within each and every one of us. Addiction may have been a chapter in our lives, but it does not define us. We are warriors, stronger with each step we take towards healing.

In the face of challenges, we have chosen courage over comfort, forging a path of renewal and hope. Every day is a testament to our strength, as we rise above, transform setbacks into stepping stones, and empower each other to keep moving forward.

Let us remind ourselves: we are not alone. Our stories bind us together, creating a tapestry of support and understanding. With every breath, we move closer to our true potential, guided by the unwavering light of resilience that burns brightly within us.

Together, we will continue this journey, uplifted by the knowledge that we are capable, we are deserving, and we are resilient. Thank you.
