

In the garden of stars where our dreams gently meet,
I've wandered through galaxies with rhythm in my feet.
With the moon's silver glow and the sun's golden gleam,
You've painted my heart with the hues of a dream.
From whispers of twilight to dawn's first embrace,
Your love is the melody, profound and full of grace.
As the river of time flows gently and wide,
I wish you by my side, as my eternal bride.
So beneath the wide sky with the world as our dome,
Take my hand, love, and let's call it our home.
With every beat of my heart, with every breath anew,
I ask you, beloved, will you say "I do"?