

Ladies and gentlemen, esteemed colleagues, and future healthcare professionals,

Today, I stand before you, embracing the reality of my recent medical school rejection. While it may seem like a setback to some, I view it as a pivotal moment that fuels my determination and strengthens my resolve. This rejection does not define my capabilities, nor does it diminish my passion for becoming a healer. Instead, it presents an opportunity to grow, to refine my skills, and to come back stronger and more prepared. I understand that the path to medicine is rigorous, filled with competition and challenges. Yet, I am undeterred. This is not the end of my journey; it is merely a detour, guiding me towards experiences that will enrich my understanding and empathy.

I choose to rise above this hurdle, to persevere and prove that my dedication to this noble field remains unwavering. I will learn from this experience, apply with renewed vigor, and continue to seek opportunities that align with my dreams.

Thank you, and remember, resilience in the face of rejection is the true testament to one's commitment and strength.