

Ladies and gentlemen of the panel,

I stand before you today with a firm conviction in my innocence regarding the allegations of plagiarism brought against me. I assure you that these accusations do not reflect my academic integrity or the respect I hold for original work.

To provide clarity, I will present verifiable evidence to support my defense. First, let me direct your attention to the timeline of my research process. As demonstrated in the documented drafts and notes, which have been consistently dated and organized, each segment of my work was developed independently and meticulously over several months.

Furthermore, I have attached a copy of my research log that details the sources consulted. Each source was diligently annotated, scrutinized, and properly attributed within my paper. This log includes direct references and a comprehensive bibliography that align with all cited ideas and quotations.

Additionally, I have sought and included statements from my peer reviewers, who can attest to the authenticity and originality of my drafts. Each reviewer has verified that the work underwent substantial conceptual development, evidencing that the content was shaped through my unique analytical perspective.

I believe these facts speak volumes about my commitment to academic honesty. Therefore, I respectfully urge the panel to take into account this clear evidence affirming my diligent and sincere approach to scholarship.

Thank you for your attention and consideration.
