

Ladies and gentlemen,
Esteemed colleagues, beloved students, and honored guests,
Today, I stand before you with immense pride and a heart full of hope. As we close this chapter, I want to acknowledge each and every one of you for the perseverance and resilience you've shown during your academic journey.
You have faced challenges that at times seemed insurmountable, yet you stood firm and emerged stronger. Remember, it's not the obstacles that define you, but how you overcome them.
As you step into new paths, embrace each challenge as an opportunity to grow. The world may at times seem daunting, but I have faith that you possess the power to not only confront your fears but to transcend them. Believe in yourselves, keep pushing boundaries, and never lose sight of your dreams. Let the spirit of hard work and determination guide you to success. You are the architects of the future, and your potential knows no limits.
Congratulations to each of you. Go forth with courage and make us proud. Thank you.
