

Speaker:

Hello everyone! I'm so excited to be here with you today. We're going to dive into some vocabulary and have a bit of fun while doing it. Now, who here loves learning new words?

[Pause for audience interaction]

Awesome! Let's start with a word we all might have heard before--

"curious." Who can tell me what curious means?

[Pause for responses]

Great answers! Curious means wanting to know more about something or having a desire to learn. Like when you're curious about what's inside a wrapped gift!

Now, let's spice it up with a question: Can someone share a time when you felt really curious about something? Maybe you discovered something exciting or unexpected?

[Pause for someone to share their story]

Thank you for sharing! That's a perfect example of curiosity in action. Isn't it amazing how our curiosity can lead us to new adventures and discoveries? Remember, being curious is like being a detective in your own life, always finding clues and learning new things.

So, next time you're curious about something, go ahead and explore it. Who knows what you'll find! Let's keep that curiosity alive and thriving! Thank you all for participating today. Keep being wonderfully curious, and see you all next time!
