

Certainly! Here's a simple example of a speech for clarification on presentation feedback:

Hello everyone,

I wanted to take a moment to thank you for attending my presentation and providing your thoughtful feedback. Your insights are incredibly valuable to me.

I noticed a few recurring points in your feedback, and I'd like to ensure I fully understand them. Firstly, several of you mentioned that the data visualization could be clearer. Could you please clarify if there was a specific chart that seemed confusing, or if there are any suggestions on how I might enhance overall clarity?

Additionally, some of you pointed out that the conclusion felt rushed. Would adding more examples or a summary of key points be beneficial in strengthening the closing section?

I genuinely appreciate your input and am committed to improving based on your suggestions. If there's anything else you'd like to share or expand upon, please feel free to let me know.

Thank you once again for your support and guidance.

Best regards,

[Your Name]
