

Certainly! Here's a simple example of a clarification speech for a group meeting in an inquiry-driven tone:

---

Hi everyone,

Thanks for gathering today. I wanted to take a moment to clarify a few points we've been discussing, to ensure we're all on the same page.

First, regarding the new project timeline, are there any uncertainties about our deadlines? It's important we all understand when each phase should commence and conclude.

Second, I noticed there were some different perspectives on resource allocation. Could someone elaborate further on the specific challenges you're experiencing? Your insights would be invaluable.

Lastly, regarding our client feedback system, is there anyone who can walk us through the latest updates? I think it would be beneficial for everyone to understand the adjustments made.

I appreciate everyone's input as we align on these points. Are there any other areas or questions that need clarification?

Thank you!

---

This example encourages open dialogue and ensures clarity on key topics by seeking input from the group.