

Certainly! Here's a simple example of a clarification speech for an online educational webinar:

---

"Hello everyone,

I hope you're all doing well. I wanted to take a moment to clarify a key point from today's presentation.

During the earlier segment, we discussed the concept of 'blended learning' and its role in modern education. To reiterate, blended learning is an approach that combines both traditional classroom experiences with online digital media. This means students will have face-to-face instruction alongside online learning activities.

If there are any questions about how to implement blended learning or if you need further examples, please feel free to ask in the Q&A section.

We're here to ensure everything is clear and to support your understanding.

Thank you for your attention!"

---