

Certainly! Here's a simple speech example for clarification during a virtual team-building exercise:

---

"Hello Team,

I just wanted to clarify the instructions for our team-building activity today to ensure everyone is on the same page. We'll be participating in a virtual scavenger hunt.

Here's how it works:

1. I'll send a list of items for you to find around your home.
  2. Once you find each item, take a picture and drop it into the chat window.
  3. The first person to submit all the items wins a small prize.
- Remember, the goal is to have fun and work together, even if we're all in different locations. Feel free to ask any questions if you have them. Let's get started and enjoy the activity!"

---

This speech clarifies the task at hand and encourages participation.