

Certainly! Here's a simple example of a speech for a polite request in a collaborative tone:

"Hello everyone,

I hope you're all having a wonderful day. I wanted to take a moment to discuss a project we're all excited about. As you know, we're nearing a crucial deadline, and I believe with a little extra effort from each of us, we can meet our goals successfully.

I understand we all have busy schedules, but I kindly ask if we could each dedicate a few additional hours this week to focus on some key tasks. Your expertise and hard work have brought us this far, and I am confident that together, we can achieve our objectives.

Please feel free to share any thoughts or suggestions on how we might streamline this process. Your input is invaluable, and I'm keen to ensure we approach this in a way that works best for everyone.

Thank you so much for your cooperation and dedication. I look forward to seeing the incredible results we'll surely accomplish together.

Warm regards,

[Your Name]"
