

Ladies and gentlemen,

Today, we gather to celebrate a group of extraordinary individuals--our nursing graduates. You have chosen a noble path defined by compassion, courage, and dedication.

As you step into your roles, remember that each patient is a story waiting for your understanding and empathy. Your calm words, attentive ears, and gentle hands will provide not just treatment, but comfort and hope.

The journey ahead will be challenging, but trust in your training, lean on your peers, and stay true to the heart that brought you here.

Congratulations on this remarkable achievement. You are the healers of tomorrow, and the world is better because of you.

Thank you.
